

A.J. Locke is an accomplished author and artist, originally from Trinidad & Tobago, now residing in NYC. As an artist, she loves expressing her creativity through various mediums, from oil paint and watercolors, to ink, and graphic design. Her tastes vary from urban fantasy to other fantasy genres, poetry, and children's picture books. Though open to opportunities, A.J. loves whimsy and fantastical elements, animals, friendships, and family bonds and believes her art style works well for projects centering young readers.
